The Leadership

Ana Aparicio

DOI:10.5744/florida/9780813029252.003.0006

Abstract and Keywords

This chapter examines the work of the Dominican-American leadership in the U.S. It explains that today's leadership is diverse in age, gender, and class background and it emphasizes either ethnic entrepreneurship or community mobilizing in order to meet the needs of and garner power for Dominicans. It illustrates these two ideological tendencies through the use of political statements, community-organizing events, and life histories.

Keywords: Dominican-Americans , leadership , U.S. , ethnic entrepreneurship , community mobilizing

Most Dominican-American leaders I interviewed in Washington Heights shared a number of beliefs. First, that organizers must work to empower Dominicans. Second, that Dominicans must focus their energies on issues they face in New York. And, finally, that in order to build a stronger political and financial base, Dominican organizers and leaders should collaborate with those outside the Dominican community. Nonetheless, as Dominican-American leaders have moved from being solely organizational

FEATURED BOOK

Derrida Vis-à-vis Lacan

Andrea Hurst

Derrida and Lacan have long been viewed as proponents of two opposing schools of thought. This book argues, however, that the logical structure underpinning Lacanian psychoanalytic theory is a complex, paradoxical relationality that corresponds to Derrida's "plural logic of the aporia". It begins by linking this logic to a strand of thinking (in which Freud plays a part) that unsettles philosophy's transcendental tradition...read more
